

Heads Together Productions – A Manifesto

Heads Together believes in:

- the transformative power of involvement in significant creative processes
- the power of creativity in effecting positive changes in social and community settings
- providing opportunities to develop everyone's creative potential
- active creative collaboration between artists and other professionals
- achieving the highest quality
- productive partnerships with other professionals/agencies to effect long-term results
- the continued development of our own skills and art form practice

Heads Together respects:

- the equal importance of artistic and social aspirations
- the particular contribution people in communities make to the process, in partnership with Heads Together
- the need to understand the importance of the political, social, cultural and economic context within which we work

Heads Together will:

- develop imaginative, inspiring and meaningful creative work with people
- set up inclusive frameworks for involvement in creative work
- value individual identity
- maintain, along with project participants, a clear understanding of the purpose and aspirations for any programme of work
- exercise a duty of care regarding the impact a project may have on participants, communities and partners
- support the potential for individual and group progression