

Theatre Company Blah Blah Blah and award-winning children's playwright Mike Kenny present:

theatre company

THE VULTURES' SONG

A schools theatre production for Y5-Y9 inspired by the 1947 Partition of India.
Touring primary schools and high schools April-June 2018.

THE VULTURES' SONG

*"There are stories just as old
Stories that are seldom told
The ones that make the blood run cold
That only vultures tell..."*

The Vultures' Song is a new production from award-winning children's playwright Mike Kenny and Theatre Company Blah Blah Blah, developed in association with Delhi-based Yellowcat Theatre. Inspired by the 1947 Partition of India, this compelling story of loss, survival and reconciliation follows one young girl's journey to safety when her world is "ripped apart and thrown to the winds".

Details

Touring to high schools and primary schools April to June 2018

Suitable for Y5-Y9

Audience Size up to 150

Can be used as evidence to help schools working towards ArtsMark

National Curriculum & SMSC links: inference, prediction, recognising themes and comparing characters, understanding consequences of actions, making connections in learning.

The Vultures' Song is combined with exciting digital resources, created by theatre and technology company C&T, to enable teachers and pupils to create their own online Supports schools working towards ArtsMark

Find out more

For further information and to book, please contact Theatre Company Blah Blah Blah on 0113 426 2767

or email Kirsty@blahs.co.uk

Theatre Company Blah Blah Blah are specialists in creating high quality participatory drama with and for children and young people, stimulating enquiry and exploration.

blahs.co.uk

f theatreblahs @theatreblahs

"Exploring stories not just telling them"