“I have enjoyed learning about broadcasting and being part of a group that creates something. My favourite moment was going live, nerve wracking but exciting!” Ibrahim

Join us this half term for a series of free workshops as part of our Next Generation youth arts and media programme.

There are 4 course options. Sessions will be 1 hour long and delivered online and at the end of the week there will be a live broadcast, for our youth radio show and podcast, RED KITE.

We have a limited number of spaces for young people 11 – 18, so register your interest now.

Writing

Tues 27th & Thurs 29th / 11am – 12noon / 14+

Writers are everywhere. And they don't just write best-selling thrillers. Writers write blogs, diaries, podcasts, film scripts, the stuff you read on the back of cereal packets, poems, teenage fiction, song lyrics, TV soaps, comics and video games. Interested? Come and try your hand.

Music

Tues 27th, Wed 28th & Thurs 29th / 1pm – 2pm / 11+

Interested in playing and making music? Want to try making something new? Join us in experimenting with digital rhythms and loops, put words to sounds and sounds to words, and find out about making music shows for radio.

Broadcasting

Tues 27th, Wed 28th & Thurs 29th / 3pm – 4pm / 11+

Learn the basics of how to prepare for and do an interview for radio, look at how to edit audio and how to help produce a live broadcast. Each day we will interview a special guest about Sports, Food and YouTube Channel Hosting.

Tech

Fri 30th / 11am – 12noon / 11+

Want to learn about the tech behind a live radio show, podcast or the great sounding audio in video live streams? Join the tech training taster session.
